Thin grey clouds in the bright sky. Sailing over hills.

Angry floaty black clouds. Blowing over trees.

A Cloudy Lesson

Cloud poetry: Use the vocabulary below to create your own cloud poem. You might choose to write a poem which describes the clouds or you might like to imagine yourself as a cloud. Remember that poems do not need to rhyme. The most important element to a poem is the careful word choice.

adjectives: graceful, tranquil, calm, fluffy, cottony, bright, gentle, delicate, neve—ending verbs: emerge, float, blow, bob, twist, waft, sail, glide, drift, bound, ascend

The storm came with thunder and big forks
of lightning,
And it was so terrible as it was frightening.
The clouds loomed black and grey in the sky.
And they were so horribly terribly high.
The storm went on for a very long time,
While my sister sat in the fruit bowl with a lime.
When the storm finished my sister, covering there,
Had actually eaten the fruit bowl all bare!
Now the sun shone through the glistening cloud,
And the sparkling sea crashed ever so loud.

Clouds

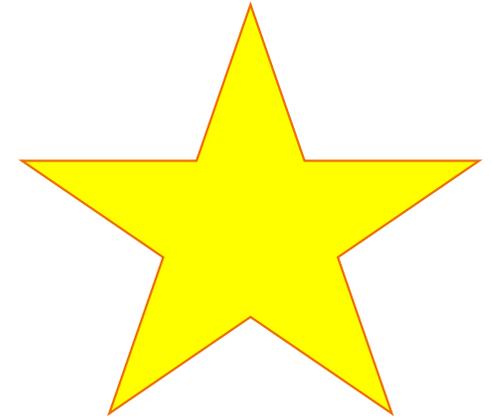

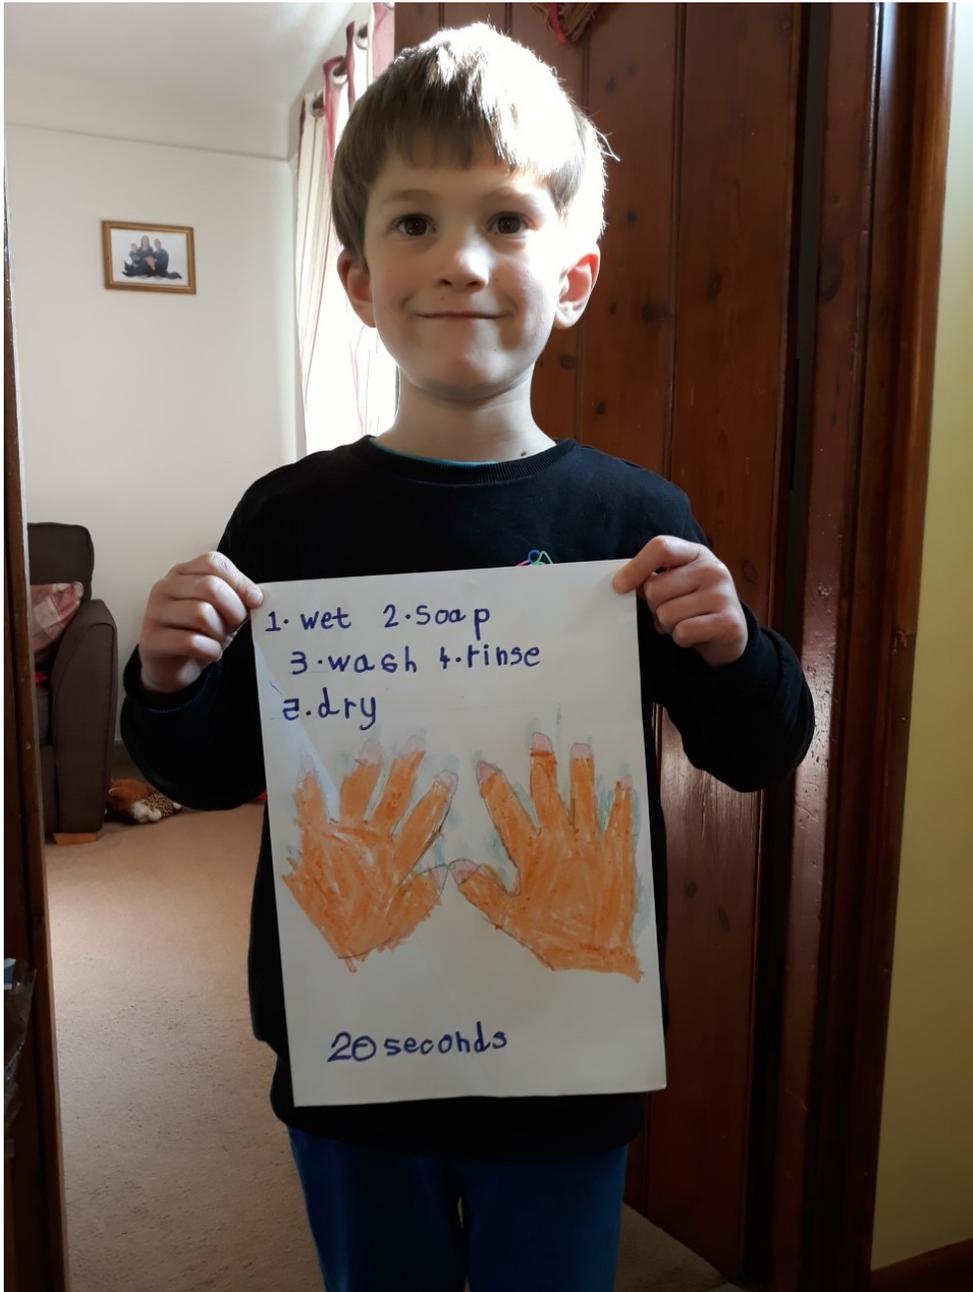

Floating across the sky
Like soft candy floss
Under the bright, yellow sun
Fluffy white clouds
Feeling hungry, tummy rumbling
Yikes! Is that a thunder cloud I see?
